Boy With Rifle Shoots Woman

Using Tin Cans in Roadway as Targets When Summer Boarder Comes Within Range—Victim's Condition Critical—Boy Held for Juvenile Delinquency.

Mrs. Mary Piorum, 31 years old, of 545 West 39th street, New York city, a boarder at the Alexander Puzdiak boarding house at High Woods, town of Saugerties, was accidentally shot Monday afternoon by John Laskowski, 14 years old, another boarder at the house. Her condition is critical. From an examination made by Dr. George F. Chandler of this city and Dr. B. W. Gifford of Saugerties, the bullet from a .22 calibre Stevens repeating rifle lodged in the left kidney.

According to witnesses to the accident, young Laskowski was shooting at tin cans in the road near the house. Mrs. Piorum was seated on the lawn nearby and after a time she left the yard and started across the road in range of the shots. One of the bullets struck her in the left side and she dropped to the ground, calling out that she had been shot. Seamon Brothers' ambulance was summoned from Saugerties and she was conveyed to the Beeres Sanitarium at Saugerties where she was attended by Dr. B. W. Gifford, who found the bullet had penetrated deeply and apparently lodged in the kidney. Dr. George Chandler was called and an X-ray was taken to locate the bullet.

During the evening Mrs. Piorum's condition was so critical that Sheriff Rice was summoned and went to the Sanitarium to secure a statement. He was accompanied by Sergeant James Cunningham of the State Troopers and Dr. F. J. Dudenhausen of St. Remy who represented the district attorney's office.

Later, although her condition was still critical, Mrs. Piorum was said to be slightly improved.

John Laskowski, who resides at 533 East 12th street, New York city, was held by Judge Fowler of Children's Court on a charge of juvenile delinquency pending the outcome of the injuries and was placed in the custody of the sheriff. He with his mother spent the night at the court house. Bail will probably be arranged.

The shooting was witnessed by Stella Imachalecki and Mrs. Eva Imachalecki, her mother, and Teddy Laskowski, 11 year old brother of John.

The rifle with which the shooting was done was confiscated by the sheriff as was a quantity of ammunition and several of the tin cans which were being used as targets.

AMERICANS AND NICARAGUANS CLEARING UP OCOTAL.

Managua, July 19 (AP).—Fearful of an epidemic, the authorities of Ocotal, scene of Sunday's seventeen hour engagement between the forces of General Sandino, rebel leader, and a joint body of 39 United States marines and a group of Nicaraguan constabulary, are cleaning up the city, which has the appearance of a grave yard.

Flocks of vultures descended upon the battlefield over which the bodies of about 300 of General Sandino's men lay scattered, most of the killed meeting death from bombs dropped by five airplanes ordered from Managua to the rescue of the marine force at Ocotal, by Brig. General Logan Feland.

The rebel force, which attacked Ocotal at 1 o'clock Sunday morning, succeeded in bringing down one American plane, but the aviators escaped safely and landed in Ocotal. The plane was piloted by Sergeant Albert S. Musch. One bullet punctured the gas tank and another bullet went through the pilot's pistol holster.

Damage American Consulate at Nice

Bomb Exploded in Front of Building—No One Injured—Thought To Have Been Work of Sacco-Vanzetti Sympathizers—French Officials Express Regret.

Nice, France, July 19 (AP).—A bomb was exploded today in front of the building in which the American consulate is located. No one was hurt and only slight damage was done.

Consular officials expressed the belief that the bombing was the work of some one who wished to make a demonstration in behalf of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti without actually causing bloodshed.

Nearly every window was broken in the consulate but there was no other damage.

Consul J. Lee Murphy revealed this afternoon that the consulate had received many threatening letters recently concerning the Sacco-Vanzetti case and had asked police protection. Lately officials have been disturbed nearly every night by the frequent ringing of their doorbells although no one was visible when the bell was answered.

French officials called early upon the consulate to express regret for the incident and promised every effort to arrest those responsible. The consulate was heavily guarded today, with a force of police keeping the crowds in the street moving.

Hold Dry Agents On Perjury Charge

Two of Capital's "Under Cover" Men Held in Connection With Story of Having Bought Whiskey From a Member of the Police Force.

Washington, July 19 (AP).—Two of the Capital's squad of "under cover" prohibition agents were in jail today on a charge of perjury in connection with a story of having bought whiskey from a member of the police force.

Their arrest last night came as a result of police officers becoming suspicious over the color of the evidence obtained by the two agents which they said in nearly all cases was red, while the raiding squad usually found gin or corn.

The agents, Charles Davis and Jesse J. Hall, were told to try and get a "buy" from Police Officer Curtis, the authorities said. After this order was issued a squad of officers stationed themselves in the Curtis home. Late in the afternoon the agents returned with a pint of colored whiskey, it was charged, representing it had been purchased from a woman at the address given.

Police said Davis had not been near the place and that the "evidence" had been bought from a bootlegger in another part of town.

Milk, Not Beer, Says Chamberlin

Denies Statement That His One Desire Was to Get a Glass of Beer When He Reached Germany—Left Three Kegs and Four Cases in Germany.

New York, July 19 (AP).—Clarence D. Chamberlin's favorite beverage is milk and when in Germany he drank beer merely "because it was the drink of the country."

To deny a statement attributed to him before his flight that his one desire on reaching Germany was a glass of beer, appeared to be Chamberlin's chief concern upon his return yesterday.

"That story," he said, "got me the finest beer that was ever brewed. I suppose, but it was more or less wasted on me. I took a drink of beer now and then in Germany, but it was only because it was the drink of the country."

Chamberlin said that German brewers sent him three kegs and four cases of beer, all of which he left in Germany when he departed.

Geneva Outlook More Favorable

Gibson, Chief American Delegate, Say That Leaders Begin to See Some Light Ahead—Little Likelihood of Another Plenary Session Before Next Week.

Geneva, July 19 (AP).—"We are more optimistic now than we have been for some days," Hugh Gibson, chief American delegate to the Tripartite Naval Conference, declared after a conference today of the six principal delegates.

"The discussions are continuing in a most cheerful and friendly atmosphere," added Mr. Gibson. "We are beginning to see some light ahead."

More Sessions Ahead.

Mr. Gibson, however, indicated that this morning's deliberations, which were devoted to the broader phases of the cruiser problem as a whole, would have to be followed by several other sessions of the "big six" and that the harmonious spirit prevailing today did not necessarily signify rapid progress in concluding the work of the conference.

The American delegate stated that there would be no meeting of the executive committee of the conference for three or four days. This indicates that there is little likelihood of another public plenary session of the conference before next week.

Discuss Obsolete Cruisers.

The question of defining the obsoleteness of cruisers—determining what ships will be counted as active units and included in the total tonnage limitation of surface craft—appears to have formed the subject of today's discussion.

Replying to a question as to whether agreement was in sight on the number of 10,000 ton cruiser carrying 8 inch guns to which each of the three powers would be entitled Mr. Gibson said that that problem had not yet come officially before the conferees and that it would be some time before it was reached.

YOUNG GANGSTER TO TESTIFY AGAINST MATES

Benton, Ill., July 19 (AP).—Harry Thomasson, youthful gangster and confessed slayer of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, took the stand today to testify against Charles Birger, his former chieftain, and Art Newman and Ray Hyland, on trial for the murder.

As Thomasson took the witness chair he looked down and his grey eyes met those of Birger, for whom he is alleged to have left his father's farm to become a hired killer.

The witness gave his age as 19. He said he and his brother, Elmo, who was killed in the burning of Birger's fortified roadhouse last January 8, arrived at the roadhouse December 11, the night before the slaying. They came in a stolen roadster.

He described the roadhouse and then launched into a recital of the planning of the slaying.

Fliers Are Free From Ceremonies, Plan for Future

Transatlantic Fliers Today Free From Official Ceremonies—Will Attend McGraw's Silver Jubilee Celebration—Byrd's South Pole Plans—Chamberlin's Plans for Future.

New York, July 19 (AP).—A day virtually free of official ceremonies greeted the five returned transatlantic fliers today after their enthusiastic welcome home.

A baseball game in the afternoon at which ceremonies were arranged, in honor of the 25th anniversary of John J. McGraw's management of the New York Giants, and a municipal dinner at the Hotel Commodore tonight, comprised their official program.

Future Plans.

Meanwhile, Commander Richard E. Byrd and his crew of the America are already looking forward to their next great adventure—a flight to the South Pole—while Clarence D. Chamberlin, pilot of the Columbia, is anxious to perfect plans for a transatlantic flying service.

South Pole Flight Plans.

Byrd considers his South Pole flight as another "great air battle", an undertaking of such magnitude that it will claim all of his time and attention.

"And I hope it will be a conquest in every sense of the word," he said.

Bennett to Accompany Him.

He will be accompanied on the new adventure by the three who flew with him to France and Floyd Bennett, pilot of his North Pole flight, who is recovering from injuries received in a test flight of the America.

Will Require Two Years.

Byrd said his original plan of accomplishing the South Pole flight in a year will have to be scrapped. In all likelihood the undertaking will require two years, he said, and he and his crew might have to spend three years in the Antarctic if he carried out extensive explorations of the region.

Will Establish Bases.

"As I see it now, we can really expect to get little done our first summer season down there except lay our bases," he said. "I hope to establish a home base somewhere near Lyttleton, New Zealand. From there in, on the New Zealand icecap we will have to set up secondary bases. This is hard and trying work and is going to take a lot of time. After we have all of this work done we will still have the main flight ahead."

The main flight will be from the primary base to the Pole and back, he said. He believed the exploration flights will be on the same order. The expedition expects to set out from Norfolk, Va., about the middle of September.

Chamberlin Plans New Ship.

Chamberlin is busy planning a new ship with automatic controls for transatlantic flying service.

Kellogg Defends Marine Attack

American Government Feels That Nicaraguan Clash Is a Step Toward Restoration at Peace—Battle Discussed at Pan-American Congress—Nicaraguan Delegate Protests.

Washington, July 19 (AP).—The American government feels the clash of marines with the forces of General Sandino at Ocotal, Nicaragua, is a step towards the restoration of peace in the Central American republic.

That was the reply of Secretary of State Kellogg to protests voiced at the fifth Pan-American Congress here against the marines' defeat of the Nicaraguan general.

The Ocotal battle formed the outstanding topic of discussion at the Congress's opening session yesterday and the Nicaraguan delegate, Salomon De La Selva, attempted to place the organization on record opposing the presence of marines in his country and deploring the killing of Sandino's men.

Sandino and his force were described by the secretary as merely "outlaws and resorting to banditry" and the general, formerly a Liberal military leader under General Moncada, was said by Mr Kellogg not to "have the support of either of the Nicaraguan political parties". Mr. Kellogg addressed his reply to President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, who had received protests from the Nicaraguan delegates to the Congress against the use of marines against Sandino.

Armour Passes Critical Stage

Famous Packer, Ill with Typhoid, Said to be on the Mend—Daughter and her Husband Rush from California to His Bedside in London—Has Been in Poor Health for Some Time.

London, July 19 (AP).—J. Ogden Armour, who has been seriously ill at the Carlton Hotel, was believed today to have passed the critical stage and to be on the mend. He was still too weak, however, to see anyone but his wife. It is understood that his daughter and her husband, advised of his illness, are on their way to England.

Mr. Armour had been attended by Lord Dawson, physician to the king.

Chicago, July 19 (AP).—The Herald and Examiner said today that J. Ogden Armour is critically ill in London and that his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell, Jr., are racing against time across land and sea to reach his bedside. The paper said that the packer was stricken with typhoid fever a week ago last Wednesday.

The Mitchells left Chicago last night on the second leg of their dash across the continent to make the Berengaria of the Cunard line which sails from New York at midnight tonight. They started last Friday, when they received a cablegram from Mrs. Armour at their summer home in California to "come immediately."

Mrs. Armour supplemented the cablegram with a telephone call from London to Santa Barbara, her voice traveling more than 7,000 miles.

Mr. Armour, it was said in the story, had been ailing for some time. In the last year he has twice suffered severe attacks of indigestion. The crisis from the attack of typhoid fever was supposed to have been passed last Friday, the paper said, but his condition was such that it was decided to summon members of his family.

Mr. Armour is 64 years old.

Lindbergh to Start Wednesday

Goes to New Jersey Today to Get "Spirit of St. Louis"—Will Inspect Wright Factory—Flies to Hartford Tomorrow.

Mitchel Field, N. Y., July 19 (AP).—Col. Charles Lindbergh flew to New Jersey this morning to get his transatlantic plane "The Spirit of St. Louis" preparatory to beginning an air tour of the country in the interests of aviation.

The flying colonel arrived here shortly before 8 o'clock, having forgotten whether his appointment with Charles L. Lawrence, president of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, was for 8 or 9 o'clock.

When he found it was for 9 he took up the Wright service plane which had been sent for him and for half an hour treated the army post to an exhibition of sideslipping and loops.

Lawrence arrived promptly and the plane left at 9:30 for Teterboro Airport with Lindbergh at the controls. Lawrence and Lew Gowder, the plane's regular pilot, rode as passengers. From Teterboro the fliers planned to proceed by automobile to Paterson, N. J., where the "Spirit" has been overhauled at the Wright factory.

After inspecting the factory Lindbergh planned to return here in his own plane about noon. At noon tomorrow he will fly to Hartford, Conn., where his country-wide tour begins.

Ice Cake Gives Matheia Bad Cut

Leo Matheia of 17 East Chestnut street, a helper on a delivery truck of the Ulster County Ice and Coal Corporation, received a very severe wound above his right eye under the brow Monday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock and is now in the Benedictine Hospital where he was taken by the city ambulance after receiving first aid from Dr. Harry P. Van Wagenen of John street who was called.

The accident happened while Matheia was delivering ice to the Grand Union Tea & Grocery store at the rear entrance on Fair street. Exactly how it happened is not known as yet but it is thought that while he was in the act of taking out half of a large cake of the artificial ice from the rear of the truck, it got the better of him, that he slipped, and losing his hold, the ice fell over and a corner of the cake struck him over the eye. He received a deep wound and bled considerably. Although he naturally suffered great pain he did not lose consciousness.

Dr. Van Wagenen was sent for and arrived at the scene in a few minutes. After binding up the cut and head he took him to the Benedictine Hospital in the ambulance and the necessary surgical attention was given. It was said that Mr. Matheia had only been at work on the delivery truck about three hours before he was hurt.

Reforming Expert Violates the Law

The Rev. O. R. Miller, of reform movement fame, of Albany, learned Sunday night, says the Saugerties Evening Star, that the state troopeds are on the job. After striking an automobile driven by George Adsit of this village at the corner of Partition and Russell streets, the Rev. Miller's machine continued on its way toward Kingston.

State Trooper William Nagle was in the Maxwell House at the time, and when he was appraised of the accident and the departure of the Miller car he requested Kenneth Stokes to assist in the chase. Seated on the rear of Stokes' motorcycle, Trooper Nagle followed Rev. Miller far some distance before he overtook him. Bringing the reform champion back to the scene of the crash, Trooper Nagle started an investigation. Rev. Miller, it is said, stated he had but $1 with him at the time and tendered it to Mr. Adsit as payment for a bent fender. It was accepted and the Albanian went on his way.

Adsit's car was proceeding north on Partition street when Mr. Miller's car came out of Russell street.

Chapman Shot By Anarchist

Washington, July 19 (AP).—William H. Chapman, American consul at Puerto Mexico, who was shot and seriously wounded Sunday by an intruder in his home, has informed the American Embassy in Mexico City that he believes his assailant was an anarchist.

"Please convey to President Calles my appreciation of his personal inquiry through the military commander as to my health and his urgent orders that local authorities apprehend the anarchist," Chapman telegraphed to Charge Schoenfeld.

His message said that the attack on him had aroused resentment among the people of Puerto Mexico and added:

"All day yesterday and until after midnight, one after another and in groups they called to learn my condition."

Chapman said he was improving normally.

Commercial Air Progress Noted

Officials of U. S. Commerce Department Pleased With Upward Trend—Many Difficulties Still to be Overcome—Between 3,500 and 5,000 Planes Operating in Commercial Service.

Washington, July 19 (AP).—Cold figures, made available today at the commerce department, showed in unmistakable terms the upward swerve of American commercial aviation during the months made notable by the record breaking transatlantic and transpacific flights of American aviators.

Officials of the department's aeronautical section who have studied the plugging, work a day performances of infant transport lines now operating in every section of the country, are plainly pleased over the developments of last year but they still see many difficulties to overcome.

Sure of Future Expansion.

Even as they translate the figures that show an unsuspected degree of present day accomplishment, they can point out the need for yet more effort and ingenuity. With it all, the perspective they have from long years of contact with the pioneer makes them surer of the expansion that is coming.

Many Commercial Planes.

Operating in commercial service over the country today there is a total of between 3,500 and 5,000 airplanes, according to the best estimate of director Young of the aeronautics section. The number is increasing so rapidly that the new system of plane regulation which went into effect last February has been unable to catch up with the situation. There are 12 airways under systematic schedule service with ten transport companies participating.

Growth of Air Mail.

Possibly the best index of growth of utility is the figures compiled for the air mail. In the fiscal year 1926 the air mail poundage was 560,235, and for the fiscal year 1927, which ended June 30, the total was 1,114,505, an increase of more than 100 per cent. That figure of 100 per cent annual gain runs with regularity through a variety of indicies touching the air situation, for instance, it is almost exactly representative of the manufacturing situation since in 1926 the value of all aircraft and air materials produced in the country was $24,161,752, or twice as much as the $12,775,181 total for production in 1925. The tentative estimates of 1927 production indicate the maintenance of the rate for another year.

REBUILD AND EXHIBIT BYRD'S FLIER "AMERICA"

New York, July 19 (AP).—The transatlantic monoplane America, which during the reception to Commander Byrd and his associates yesterday lay dismantled and crated in the hold of the Leviathan, will have its day of glory, John Gillespie, spokesman for the commander, announced today.

The storm battered ship will be rebuilt, he explained, and placed on exhibition, probably in Central Park.

Commander Byrd's plans for his next daring expedition are already taking definite form. A whaling ship, due here August 25, will bear the South Pole expedition southward from Norfolk, Va., on September 16, said Mr. Gillespie.

The plane in which the commander hopes to fly over the South Pole, is now nearing completion at the Fokker plant, and is similar to the Josephine Ford, with which Byrd conquered the North Pole.

After satisfying himself that he did a good job, he proceeded on his way out Foxhall avenue.

During the reconstruction Mr. Bertie's license number was taken and the police department notified. Word was sent to Saugerties and Captain Richter of the Saugerties police department called Mr. Bertie that he was in the city of Kingston and directed that he be held there. A bail separation bond was posted and was allowed to depart.

William Watson of Brooklyn was arrested Monday evening by Officer Dempsey charged with driving his car on Broadway at 54 miles per hour. The motorist in police court he had his case adjourned until Wednesday.

UNCLE SAM GETS HOUDINI'S BOOKS

Handcuff Expert Spent Fortune Accumulating Noted Works on Legerdemain.

Washington.—Enriched each year by the addition of 100,000 volumes, the Library of Congress now possesses, among other treasures, what is undoubtedly the greatest collection of books on magic ever assembled. It is the library of the celebrated magician and handcuff king, the late Harry Houdini, who gathered material from all corners of the earth, writes John J. Daly in the Chicago Tribune.

"When I die," said Harry Houdini to a newspaper man between performances in a vaudeville theater, "I shall leave behind me, as my proudest contribution to posterity, a collection of books on magic the like of which has never been seen before."

He did. He gave, in toto, some 5,147 books and pamphlets to the Congressional Library, some of them the rarest books on magic to be found anywhere. The lot cost Houdini a fortune. It took him the better part of a lifetime to accumulate.

Close Student of Magic.

Looked upon merely as an entertainer, Harry Houdini studied the art of magic as most men delve into their favorite subject, be it philosophy, psychology, medicine, or the law. He went as deep in legerdemain as any man who ever lived—and it is said by those who should know that Harry Houdini had no master when he died; that he was the last word in magicry. All told, he was master of more than 10,000 tricks—some of which he learned from the books now recorded in the Library of Congress, some of which he got first hand from men who never read a book—Indian magicians, and the like.

The collection of books on magic given the American public by Harry Houdini marks the first step in the development of a lore of this kind in the United States. Heretofore, any one interested in the intricacies of an art that has come down from the time of the Exodus had, preforce, to find out by practice; by apprenticeship to a master. That, of course, in a measure, must be the case today; but with the Houdini collection where it can be studied publicly, the road is made somewhat easier for those boys and girls who would devote their lives to baffling their fellows.

Books of Famous Magicians.

In Houdini's collection, now being assorted and catalogued at the Library of Congress, are books on magic once owned by the two Steads, the Davenport Brothers, Heinberg, Harrigan, Hagan, Platt, Robinson, Alexander Herman, the Great, and a host of others whose names have become legion in legerdemain.

Of books particularly devoted to magic there are in this collection 1,727. There is only one missing, a book on magic that has been lost to collectors for all time, it seems, since no trace of it could be found even by Houdini in his world-wide search. This volume is the celebrated "Hocus Pocus Junior, the Anatomy of Legerdemain," a treatise on the gentle art of conjury by Johann Baptista Porta, the famous Neopolitan magician who held forth in the Seventeenth century.

Though "Hocus Pocus" is not in the list, there is another work by this same author that is worth its weight in gold. This is "Magia Naturalis," a rare, clumsy volume in German text that contains a fantastical woodcut showing the original methods of securing magical aid. Porta began this book in 1658, after he had written the lost volume, "Hocus Pocus," and therein he shows the first method of producing the famous candle trick, by which many candles are lighted simultaneously—a baffler in the old days but now quite tame beside some of the more modern tricks.

Describes Pristine Method.

In an elaborate detail Porta describes the pristine method. Linen thread was boiled in oil with brimstone and orpiment and, when dried, bound to the wicks of several candles. When one candle was lighted it ignited all the others, much to the mystification of spectators. "Magia Naturalis," incidentally, is one of the earliest works on conjury.

Harry Houdini had a great time collecting these books. When he was not appearing in a theater, or accepting the challenge of some police department to break from iron cells, and the like, he spent most of his time in the cities he visited searching shelves of old book shops. The imprints on the fly leaves of the books show they come from far and wide, from almost every country in the civilized world. They are, therefore, in all languages and tongues. Some of them Houdini paid as high as five and six thousand dollars for; and some he got because their owners never dreamed of their value—at least to him, the collector.

Most of the books are in a rare state of preservation despite the fact that some date back more than 300 years. There is one, for instance, published in 1622. This is the work of Simon Wilpercst of Amsterdam, who wrote "Naturelyk Tower-Boek oft Nieuw Speel-Toneel der Konsten," a volume falling almost to dust on the shelves of the Library of Congress; but one that contains a variety of information of interest to all students of magic.

Reuber's Works in Collection.

Reuber, the German, published an extravagant treatise in three volumes under date of 1736, a book known as "Bibliotheca Magica," and this finds a favored spot in the collection. Eighteen volumes from the pen of Johann Christian Wiegleb, under the title "Naturliche Magie," were published from 1780 to 1804 and these are intact; probably the only complete set in this country. Houdini had quite a difficult time annexing these. They constitute the first monumental work on magic and were an attempt to completely cover the field—a library in itself.

While these earlier books give a good insight into the field of magic, not one of them contains the great tricks of the masters; for these were preserved with infinite secrecy. Probably the first great expose of stock tricks in magic came when a book called "Les Petites Aventures de Jerome Sharp," issued in 1793 from the pen of a young Frenchman, M. Descremps, a frank volume that enjoyed quite a popularity in its day. This, Houdini captured early in his search. It is now safely preserved in the Library of Congress—along with the other rare volumes.

Conjury Fathered by Italians.

Thus runs the earlier collection—from Porta, to Witgeest, to Hauber, to Wiebleb, to Descremps. They constitute the earlier essays in the modern school of conjury fathered, it is said, by the Italians, Androletti and Antonio Carlotti.

Some years ago Ching Ling Foo was the great magician featured in this country, a product of the Chinese school that has given the world some of its greatest. Ching Ling Foo and Harry Houdini were friends. On one occasion Houdini told the writer that he knew every trick of the Chinese magician; a courtesy granted him because Ching Ling Foo liked the American. It was but natural, therefore, that Houdini should hold high regard for the books of Ching Ling Foo. These he preserved with utmost care, passing them on to the Library of Congress.

Houdini prided himself on his knowledge not only of magicry, but of the psychic—and his books on psychical research outnumbered those he gathered on the first subject. There are 3,420 volumes bequeathed by him to the Library of Congress, books that deal with a subject which interested him more and more in his later life.

Leader of His Profession.

Only fifty-two years of age when he died—his death occurred October 31, 1926—Harry Houdini had conquered the world about him; at least in so far as his particular subject occupied the attention of that world. He believed, with others, that no form of entertainment compared with magic; that, after all, theatergoers in every land are as little children and love to be amused by the deftness of the hand, the quickness of movement that deceives the eye. He was probably right, since no theater in which he appeared in the last twelve or fifteen years was ever large enough to accommodate his following.

In the vernacular of the theater, "He packed 'em in." His remunerative reward was the highest given any entertainer of his time, with the exception of such outstanding singers and stars as Caruso, John McCormick, Galli-Curci, and others of that ilk.

Houdini Collection Prized.

That such an austere institution as the Library of Congress, containing as it does practically all the known knowledge of the universe, values the Houdini collection is evidenced by the statement recently given. It follows, in part:

"Houdini, the consummate magician and mysterious handcuff manipulator; Houdini, the baffling conjurer and possessor of a thousand tricks, was known the world around; but Houdini, the book collector, was known to but a few, and is only now disclosed to the public generally by the terms of his will disposing of the library it took him a lifetime to build. No less than three collections are comprised in it. One is on drama, which he bequeathed to his wife; the other two, one on magic and the other on psychical research, he bequeathed to the Library of Congress."

Will Be Available to All.

At present, the books of Houdini are arrayed helter-skelter on the shelves of a new section in the Library of Congress. They have not yet been fully catalogued and assigned their permanent places; but the work is going on apace and soon any man or boy, woman or girl, who wants to delve into the secrets of the conjurer will have available the greatest single collection of books on magic.

No book on magic was too humble to arrest the attention of Harry Houdini, the collector. His choice bits therefore run all the way from the paltry little treatise of Prof. Harry Helms, whose scrapbook is labeled, "The Famous Magician and Juggler," to the compendium compiled by L. W. de Laurence entitled, "The Great Book of Magical Art, Hindu Magic, and Indian Occultism"—a work that contains an amazing array of material, fanciful and fantastic.

Hindu Needle Trick.

In all the realm of magicry contained in the Houdini collection there is no line to tell the inner workings of the celebrated Hindu needle trick—a trick that Houdini mastered only after seven years' study. In the National Press club, at Washington, the famous magician, returned that year from abroad, first unfolded this trick in 1912. It consisted of a relatively simple operation: the swallowing, in succession of two packages of gold-headed needles, a hundred feet of thread, and the drinking on top of all this a glassful of water. Careful examination of the man's mouth, a search conducted by fingers aided by flashlights, failed to reveal any traces of thread or needles.

When a committee was thus convinced that the steel needles and the cotton thread had thoroughly disappeared, Houdini, his hands behind his back, motioned for a member of the committee to release a knotted piece of thread lodged between the magician's teeth. This done, he instructed the committeeman to draw forth the thread, warning against carelessness as, he explained, "You might tear my throat."

Needles All Threaded.

Out came the needles, at regular intervals, all threaded. How he did it, no one ever knew. He learned the trick, he said, from an old Hindu magician. He was afraid it was too delicate to be used successfully on the stage because of lighting difficulties, but in later years it found favor among the masses. The secret died with him. It is not to be found anywhere in his collected books.

Harry Houdini, born Eric Weiss, the son of Rev. Dr. Mayer S. Weiss of Appleton, Wis., April 6, 1874, came by the name Houdini in this way. As a boy he was interested in the career of what he thought the greatest magician of all time, the famous French conjurer, Robert Houdin. In 1857, Houdin, at the request of the French government, journeyed to Algeria to overshadow the influence of Marabouts who were then exerting a superstitious influence on the Arabs by means of magic. Houdin in Tunis managed to rout the Marabouts, destroying their prestige; so that the Arabs came back to normalcy. For this he was honored by the French government. If a man could do that, thought Eric Weiss, afterwards Houdini, he was worthy of emulation. So Weiss had his name changed legally to Houdini.

Houdini Unmasks Houdin.

The irony of it is that in after years Harry Houdini, making a study of Houdin's methods, found his idol to be so much clay and wrote a book called "The Unmasking of Robert Houdin"—a heartbreak to Houdini, who said: "My investigations brought forth only the bitterest disappointment and saddest disillusionment. Stripped of his self-woven veil of romance, Robert Houdin stood forth in the uncompromising light of cold historical facts, a mere pretender, a man who waxed great on the brainwork of others—a mechanician who boldly filched the inventions of the master craftsmen among his predecessors."

Harry Houdini, whatever may be said or thought of him, was honest in his work and in his beliefs. In the theater he was known as a showman par excellence; because, as those in that world have it, "he knew how to put over his act."

He first appeared in 1882, a young trapeze performer. Around the late nineties he began to be recognized. Under the guidance of Martin Beck he gained his early fame as the "handcuff king." From then on he occupied the center of the stage in this and other countries, having at one time or another appeared before most of the rulers in every country on earth.

2,500,000 Pounds Weekly

Pertinent Facts Regarding This STATE

In New York State there are 29 firms engaged in the roasting and grinding of coffee. These concerns employ a total of 2,227 persons with an annual payroll of $3,192,289. The value of the total annual production is estimated as $47,616,457.

NATIONAL statistics show that the average family uses one pound of coffee each week, therefore the two and one-half million families of New York State will use this week an equal number of pounds of coffee.

To Coffee Roasters this enormous figure has a peculiar significance—it represents a large market, easy of access, which is particularly desirable, for their product is one which of necessity must reach the consumer as soon after roasting as possible to prevent the deterioration of its quality which begins very soon after roasting. Adequate and rapid transporation facilities are available to aid in the process of quick distribution.

Next to his interest in a market, the manufacturer of a branded coffee is interested in keeping his sales outlets sold on his particular brand so that they will give proper cooperation to his advertising effort. There are in New York State 17,542 grocery stores, natural outlets for coffee.

The dual job of selling—and of keeping sold—both the retailer and the consumer, can best be done through one common medium of advertising—the one they both read—the daily newspaper.

It is not a coincidence that the five "best sellers" are users of newspaper advertising.

Coffee is a product that is bought every week—a consistent demand. The value of the newspaper in creating a demand for a particular brand lies in the fact that it goes into every home every day—so is as valuable to insure a market as to develop it.

We have at hand much intimate information concerning every nook and corner of this concentrated market and then, too, we have available the means to supply an unbiased personal service to fit any particular requirement—Ask this newspaper or write the Advertising Bureau, New York State Publishers, 709 Charlotte St., Utica, N. Flower Show at Rhinebeck Fair

In the interests of the Flower Show of the Dutchess County Fair which will be held this year from August 29 to September 2 at Rhinebeck a group of county horticulturists have just made a tour of the county. The party included Nelson Coon, manager of the Flower Show, and the cooperating committee from the Dutchess County Horticultural society. H. E. Downer of Vassar College, P. J. Van Melle of the Poughkeepsie Nursery Company, Andrew J. Hillery of the Saltford Flower Shop, and Frank Berry of the Poughkeepsie City Greenhouses.

In its tour the party visited the estates of J. Morgan Wing and H. H. Flagler at Millbrook, and the gardens and grounds of Lyman Delano, John J. Chapman, Thomas Hunt and J. L. Redmond, in the northern part of the county, where were seen growing flowers to be shown at the fair. A stop was made especially to inspect the garden location on the fair grounds at Springbrook Park, where already the beds are being put in shape and are gay with blossoms.

The Flower Show this year promises to be one of the most attractive features of the fair, and as it combines the regular flower show of previous fairs and the Horticultural Society's exhibit at the Poughkeepsie Armory, it will surpass all other county fair flower shows in size, if not the state fair flower show itself. Two large tents have been engaged for the floral display, nearly $1,000 is being offered in prizes, and Mr. Coon, the manager, announces that space for amateurs and children has been considerably enlarged, so that all flower enthusiasts will have the opportunity to display their choicest blooms and possibly win a prize. A complete schedule of these prizes can be obtained by writing Mr. Coon or the committee at Rhinebeck, and every interested flower lover and prospective exhibitor is urged to do this without loss of time.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 19, 1927.

It is a pity to say a word in discouragement of the neighborly practice of giving a lift to strange pedestrians on the road, but the news columns continue to show that too many obliging motorists had cause to remember Aesop's story of what befell the kindly man who warmed a frozen asp in his bosom.

It seems that Dan O'Leary has just walked 100 miles in 24 hours to celebrate his 88th birthday. Perhaps spry old Dan wanted to show "them lazy soft-sitters" in the myriads of motor cars what it was still possible for a real he-man to do

Unlike the aviator who confessed that "we are all scared stiff" when far above ground, Lieut. Balchen emphatically denies that there is any of "that thrill stuff" in flying and adds: "It is no different to me from driving a car, except that personally I prefer flying. I think it is safer." Obviously there is as yet less danger of collision.

"What's the big idea," "Can't you read signs" and "How did you get that way," are on the list of tabooed conversational openings issued by the chief of the Maine state highway police. If the average cop the country over were denied those familiar "openings" as well as forbidden the mildest of "swear words", probably he would be rendered speechless.

Has Boston Common come to this? According to a Massachusetts correspondent of the New York Times, the "beauty spot" of the city once delighting to be called "the Athens of America" is now not only "the sobering-up place of every drunk" but the dump for "dead cats, rags, old paper, swill, booze containers, shoes, stockings, collars, decayed fruit and remnants of lunches, the hot dog variety prevailing."

The amusing report comes from Europe of anxiety there caused by the impression that American films are full of "propaganda" and that our movie-makers are seeking to "put the whole world under the Stars and Stripes". This will be news to American business in general and to the film makers especially, their scheme by day and dream by night being concerned with the sole aim of entertaining and enthralling "picture" fans from Hollywood to Timbuctoo, thus to fill their cash-boxes to bursting.

Referring to Attorney General Sargent's lament over the widespread "disrespect for law", the St. Louis Post-Dispatch says: "The prohibition law alone is responsible for the disease, and the only way to cure it is to abolish that law. No sumptuary law has ever been enforced, and whenever one is saddled upon free men they respond by jeers, ridicule and violation. If Mr. Sargent thinks he can induce respect for this law by moral homilies or cram it down the throats of the people by the use of spies, snoopers and snoopers he is the world's champion optimist."

STAGNANT POPULATIONS.

Dr. Estabrook of the Carnegie Institute, who has been studying the population of the southern Appalachian mountains, finds about 2,000,000 "backwoods" mountaineers out of 6,000,000 living under primitive conditions, far below normal American living standards. There is nothing surprising about this. The mountaineers in question have often been studied. Dr. Estabrook, however, has an interesting remedy to offer.

The low standards of those 2,000,000 people, he says, result not from natural inferiority so much as a lack of opportunity. Their land is so poor that it will not support them properly. Their low economic status holds them down educationally and every other way. They tend, in their poverty and isolation, to grow drilled to their plight. Thus ignorance, squalor, superstition and lack of initiative develop and continue.

The solution, says Dr. Estabrook and his co-workers, is to get most of those people out of their present environment, leaving for the most crucial land to support them. Give them more education, he says, and a chance to see the outside world.

Then those who are young and plastic will leave the life and never return to it. It sounds reasonable.

FAIRNESS AND TRAFFIC LIGHTS

The automatic red-and-green light system that has been gaining popularity in many cities works excellently when drivers obey its "Stop," "Caution" and "Go" directions. When drivers do not obey the warning lights, the automatic semaphore becomes exceedingly dangerous. A judge in Cleveland, Ohio, where the automatic traffic signals are in wide use, charged recently that more automobile accidents are being caused by drivers failing to obey the lights than by speeders and other traffic violators.

In reply to that the traffic commissioner has sent out the motorcycle police corps to train motorists in the proper use of the system. During the first day more than 200 drivers had been warned by police against "light-crashing" and 50 others had been ordered to report to police stations for more serious offenses. The police report, however, that a far larger percentage of drivers do obey the lights than not. Yet it is the few who do run past a "stop" warning who cause the wrecks and menace the whole driving public.

Many things in this world, automatic traffic signals and safe driving among them, depend for their success on the individual sense of decency and fair play, with "The big stick" handy for use on those who have neither.

No Women Gourmets

The discussion in Paris as to what is a gourmet has resulted in the claim of one well-known writer that no woman ever was one. In defining a gourmet, he says: "A gourmet is not a person, who, as some think, overeats or overdrinks merely for the sake of eating and drinking. No, he is too particular for that. Gourmets are rarely or never 'gormandizers'—they are too particular about those two twin temples of their devotion—the stomach and the brain—real gourmets partake of but one serious meal a day. People who are always nibbling are the very opposite of gourmets, and there is no habit so unsociable or deleterious as picking at food when sitting down. That is why there may be women gluttons, prodigious, horrible and voters, but never a woman gourmet."

There is bound to come a time when you feel that after all the correct answer to 99.4 per cent of the queries included in the question "Does it matter?"

For This Once Mandy Had to Compromise

Mandy was an incurable optimist and the embodiment of kindliness. She would never admit that anything was wrong with anyone, although sometimes facts pushed her hard. Her young mistress had many suitors, and the latest recruit to the ranks could boast as little in the way of good looks as was humanly possible.

"Grand looking chap, isn't he, Mandy?" queried Miss Marie's mischievous brother when the guest had departed.

Mandy teetered perilously between truth and charity. "Co'se he was," she answered presently with dignity. "Han'some gennulman—han'some gennulman." At that point honesty got the upper hand. "Ceptin'," she added conscientiously, "fo' his features."

Recovered Radium

Some detecting that would make Craig Kennedy proud was performed by Prof. J. B. Edwards of Georgia Tech in Americus, Ga. Several tubes of radium, valued at $4,000, were lost from the hospital. With mechanical devices perfected for detection of radium waves, Professor Edwards traced the receptacles and their precious contents to the city incinerator five miles away. Unscathed, the radium was returned. Hospital attaches believe the tubes became entangled in cotton and that was discarded and thus were tossed into refuse receptacles.

Elevator for Mount Blanc

Mount Blanc, Europe's tallest mountain, will soon be "climbed" by elevator. The cableway, with a car similar to a hotel elevator and carrying from 50 to 70 people, will soon be in operation from Chamonix to the summit of Aiguille du Midi. The ascent may then be made in two hours and without guides. Construction of the elevator cableway was started 17 years ago, but was interrupted by the war.

The World's Simplest Electric Refrigerator

Quiet...No oiling...Trouble-free

This is the smallest model. It makes seven pounds of ice at once, provides five and one-half cubic feet of food space and nearly eight square feet of shelf area—ample for the average family. There are larger models to meet every home need. Come in and see them. Meanwhile, mail the coupon for a descriptive booklet.

General Electric Icing Unit

FOR fifteen years the laboratories of General Electric have been busy with this problem of perfect electric refrigeration. And, being the outstanding electrical organization of the world, it was only logical that they should evolve a remarkably simple and efficient icing unit.

Sixty-four skilled engineers cooperated in its development. Thousands of refrigerators of nineteen different types were field-tested and improved.

Their goal was to produce the simplest, most practical, most economical electric refrigerator that science could achieve. That ambition has been realized.

The General Electric refrigerator consumes very little current. It keeps the most uniform temperature. It is extremely quiet—three feet away you can hardly hear it. It can be installed in five minutes and, once installed, you never need oil it—never need touch it.

All its moving parts are enclosed in one hermetically sealed housing on top of the cabinet. It has efficiency sealed in—and trouble sealed out. The entire unit is merely lowered into the top of the refrigerator—and plugged into a convenience outlet. Instantly it works.

There are sizes for every home. See them, study their superiorities. Get all the facts before you decide. Or mail in the coupon and we will send you a booklet that tells about the remarkable new-day refrigerator.

NATURE'S WATCHFUL CARE.

I have spoken before about a young physician who was very ill with pneumonia.

No hope was held out for him from the beginning because the white corpuscles in his blood did not increase above normal. These white corpuscles are the disease fighters, and he simply did not have any in reserve, or the pneumonia did not induce the formation of more as it should have done.

You see the rise in temperature, the increase in the pulse rate, and the increase in the number of these white corpuscles, all tell the physician just how sick you are.

And now a most interesting point is reported by Dr. R. W. Walton. Working in the emergency ward of the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, a workman was brought in suffering with a broken leg. The number of white corpuscles in the blood was found to be three times that of the normal.

Thinking this might be due to the fracture he watched all the cases of fracture thereafter for a period of a year.

He found that the white corpuscles increased in number in all cases of fracture, and the increase was in proportion to the severity of the fracture.

Thus skull fractures gave the highest count, the fractures of the fingers or toes the least.

He found that the increase developed immediately after the fracture, reached its height within twenty-four hours, and stayed high until the bones were set, and further movement of the broken ends prevented by a splint. Where the bone was broken without injury to surrounding soft tissue, there was increase in white corpuscles was slight; where the soft tissues were injured to some extent, the increase was greater; and where there was damage to the soft tissues and the fragments of bone were greatly displaced, the increase was still greater. Thus Nature, as ever, increased her efforts according to the need. And when the surgeon had the bone set and the splints applied, the white corpuscles immediately began to lessen in numbers, as the need thus grew less.

Life is breathed into your body when you are born, and life departs from your body when you die.

That body of yours is life's dwelling place on this earth. And when you think of how Nature takes care of you under all conditions, it should beget a reverence within you for that body of yours.

Motor Philosophy

One touch of gasoline makes the whole world spin. Give a man a chassis, four tires, a soap box and a horn, and he immediately wants to become the Vanishing American. From that time on, he believes in the survival of the fleetest. He has two mottoes: "Might makes right," and "The other fellow is always wrong."—American Magazine.

Daytime Frocks

Lemon yellow, such as mimosa, is a smart new spring color for daytime frocks. A two-toned blue crepe de chine model combines sheltie, a cool gray blue with periwinkle, a blue with a touch of lavender in it. Light canvas pink sports dresses, in both jersey and silk material, are now popular.

Shade of Violine Important

Rarely has blue occupied such an important place on the color chart of fashion, and in the large and varied group of blues shown for spring the loveliest are those on the violine tones. They are equally as successful in frocks and evening wraps as they are in millinery.

Gray Combine

Smoke gray combined with dull rose or pale green is used in many tea gowns and negligees.

Vienna Is Back To Normal Again

Socialist Leaders Agree to Have Parliament Act as Final Arbiter in the Dispute Which Started Turmoil on Friday—General Strike Called Off—84 Killed and 500 Wounded.

Vienna, Austria, July 19 (AP).—Chancellor Seipel has won the Socialist leaders, Burgomaster Seitz and Otto Bauer, and the labor leader, Tomschisch to his view that Parliament should be the final arbiter in the dispute that has kept the country in a turmoil since Friday. It was believed today that all danger of further outbreaks is past. Parliament will meet Thursday, when the dispute will be placed before it.

Thus the united government parties, with the chancellor as their spokesman, have won a victory over the Social democrats who for several weeks had been engaging in an obstructionist campaign against the Seipel government.

The general strike has been called off and Vienna presented an almost normal appearance today, except for strong patrols of regular and volunteer police patrolling the city with rifles over their shoulders. The capital is still under a state of emergency.

Financial interests and hotelkeepers, who have had one of the best seasons in years, united in warning the Socialists that serious consequences for the country's finances both at home and abroad, might ensue if they persisted in trying to force the government to grant concessions. Even among the laboring masses the strike had been unpopular, and there was genuine relief when the populace learned it had been brought to an end.

In announcing the termination of the strike, the minister of finance, Herr. Kienbeck, declared: "The government has achieved a great success." He added that the palace of justice, wrecked in Friday's outbreak of rioting and arson, was to be rebuilt. The number of persons killed in the disorders in front of this as well as other government buildings has been fixed at 84 in latest reports, while it is said that something like 500 wounded are being treated at the city hospitals.

THE SUN'S HELP

It had been a very hot day.

The sun had beaten down with such force that many people could not stay out at all.

They kept saying:

"Hasn't it been a hot day? My, but it has been a hot day. It certainly has been a very hot day."

Then Peter Gnome said to his friends:

"Do any of you know the reason why it has been so hot?'

They all said that they did not know. They asked him:

"Was there a reason?"

"Most certainly," said Peter Gnome, "and it was this:

"A few days ago a little girl was sick, and the doctor said that the thing which would save her life would be the sun.

"Now, you can imagine, the sun was very proud when he heard that.

"'To think,' said he to himself, 'that I am so necessary in the world!

"'It makes me very happy to think that I may save a little sick girl's life.

"'What could be finer! And doctors even admit I can help when they are quite powerless and have done all they can.

"'Really, when you think of it I am just like a splendid big specialist, but instead of paying me a lot of money, or maybe going many miles to see, here I am, and no one has to pay a cent.'

"He talked on to himself in this manner for some time.

"He wasn't really conceited. It was his pride and delight that he was able to save the life of a little girl, and he said that he most certainly would save her life.

"In the summer the days are longer than in the winter, and he was given more opportunity.

"But the next day when he was shining brightly and was making everything, oh, so warm, he heard a little girl say to a friend of hers:

"'Oh, I do wish that horrid old sun would not shine so hard!'

"'Why,' asked her little friend, 'don't you like it when it is nice and warm? We can play and never have to put on any horrid wraps, and we can go in wading and swimming, and just have the best time.'

"'No,' said the little girl, 'I simply hate it because it makes me have freckles.

"'I just hate the freckles I have in the summer, and every one teases me so about them.'

"'Why, how absurd!' answered her little friend. 'What do you care if you have freckles in the summer? They aren't so dreadful.'

"The sun listened to the conversation with great interest, and he said to himself:

"'Well, if any one is going to make such a fuss about a few little freckles I am going to get mad and blaze.

"'I'm going to see that my little sick friend is cured by me, just as the doctor said she would be.

"'And I shall see that it is a fine sunny summer so everyone will have a good time and feel well.'

"You see," said Peter Gnome, "Mr. Sun is keeping his word, and is helping the little sick girl and not minding about those who complain of him."

"We see," said the gnomes, who were very happy to think of the fine work Mr. Sun was accomplishing.

Just Like Grandpa

Grandma and mother were, as usual, discussing the new baby. "I can't make up my mind whom she favors," remarked grandma.

"Neither can I. It's hard to trace the slightest resemblance to anybody in the family," agreed mother.

"No, it isn't!" helpfully piped Otto. "Her hair and teeth are exactly the picture of grandpa's. They've each got none."

Sandman Not Wanted

Big sister's guest was scheduled to arrive during the afternoon, and Mary Beth didn't want to take her nap, thinking she would miss something.

"Mudder, why can't we call up the Sandman and tell him not to come today?" she said plaintively.

Moslem Piety Keeps Irak Officials Busy

London, England.—Corpse smuggling at the frontiers of Irak keeps European health officials busy enforcing quarantine rules, according to reports received here by the editors of the Lancet. The desire of all devout Mohammedans to make pilgrimages to the cities visited by the prophet, as well as the blessings that accrue to the faithful when they make one of the holy cities their final resting place, makes plenty of work for the quarantine officers.

New laws have been put into effect calling for the examination of all local corpses as well as those in transit from other countries. Now no corpse can be buried in one of the holy places without a pass. Examinations and health permits are also issued to the thousands of pilgrims that throng into Arabia from the East, thus enabling health officers to check up on the most fruitful sources of the spread of epidemics in the Orient.

Birds' Food Important

Choice of food by a bird usually is the most important factor in its relation to man. One of the reasons for importing the sparrow was to have it eat dropworm, a shade-tree pest which spun down its silken threads among pedestrians. The dropworm is no longer a pest in cities, and entomologists give sparrows the credit. Not only this pest but almost every injurious insect we have is eaten at times by this ubiquitous alien.

'Very Touched' French Rival of 'Delighted'

Paris.—"Very touched" is President Doumergue's equivalent for "T. R.'s" "Delighted!"

Every time any visiting sovereign, statesman or delegation pays a tribute to his nation or himself, the French President counters with that phrase. Sometimes he declares himself "infinitely touched" by the compliment, sometimes only "very," and again "profoundly" when the occasion warrants it. But always there is that word "touched"—"tou ou-che," as M. Doumergue pronounces it with his inimitable lingering, caressing Southern accent.

Charleston in Ireland

The charleston has been included in the annual dancing tournament between cities of Ulster, Ireland. It is not classed as one of the regular dances, such as the fox trot, waltz and tango, but is given a special and separate competition. The tournament this year was conducted in Victoria hall, Belfast, by the Ulster Amateur Dancing championship, and every amateur dancer in Ulster was eligible. The first prize was a loving cup presented by the lord mayor of Belfast when the contest was inaugurated three years ago. Miss Katherine Watson of Derry judged the trials, and admitted that Belfast had better dancers than Derry.

THATCHER

BOILERS-FURNACES-RANGES

Even Temperature

ON THE very coldest days every room will have the coziness and even temperature of a Southern home if heated by a Thatcher Round Boiler.

Among its many advantages are:

The "staggered" fire travel which utilizes all hot gases and smoke instead of allowing some to escape up the chimney;

Firing periods are less frequent due to the depth of the fire-pot with its large coal carrying capacity;

Provision for domestic hot water system, so that ample hot water may be secured whenever the boiler is in operation.

There is the correct Thatcher Round Boiler to meet your individual requirements. Your dealer will tell you the size you need.

Mail coupon and literature will be sent you, describing in detail the many unusual features of the Thatcher Round Boiler and other Thatcher products.

Building a Royal Cord Balloon on the Flat Band Machine. It is perfectly possible to carry out the policy of "Plenty of Rubber" with the old-style methods. But the invention of this machine by the United States Rubber Company made tire construction a more exact and controllable process than ever before, and so makes it possible to build in "Plenty of Rubber" with greater precision.

EXPRESSED in terms of your car, "Plenty of Rubber" means this:

The United States Rubber Company has the rubber resources, and is using these resources to make United States Tires give you truly "More for your Money."

The test on the wheels of your car is the final answer to all theories and questions.

As rubber growers, rubber experts and tire authorities, we know that the plenty of rubber we build into Royal Cord Balloons will prove itself.

Below shows the reception in City Hall Park; note the empty seats in the grand stand — (International Newsreel).

Cherry Valley to Hold Celebration

Interesting Two-Day Program Prepared Which Will Include Pageant Showing Famous Massacre Which Took Place During War of Revolution.

Cherry Valley, N. Y., July 19 (AP).—This historic village in Otsego County plays its part in New York state's sesquicentennial program this week with a two-day program that will include a pageant, a parade, sporting events, a rodeo and a dance. Cherry Valley's most famous role in history was played on November 11, 1778, when a band of Indians descended upon the little frontier settlement and massacred the inhabitants. This event will be reenacted in the pageant, together with other milestones in the town's annals.

The celebration will be held Wednesday and Thursday. On the morning of the first day residents of the village will participate in a parade through the principal streets and then will witness exhibitions of horsemanship staged by skilled riders. "Troopers' rodeo" in the afternoon will be followed by the first performance of the historical pageant, written by Abraham B. Cox and directed by Lucy Barton. A dance is scheduled for Wednesday evening.

Thursday's celebration will open with a program of sports, followed by a repetition of the rodeo. Early in the afternoon a state marker commemorating the completion here of the first section of the Great Western Turnpike will be unveiled. Addresses are to be made by Peter Nelson, assistant state historian; John D. Clark, representative in Congress; and Frederick Stuart Greene, state superintendent of public works.

The bronze tablet will recall that Cherry Valley was New York's "farthest west" in Revolutionary days and that the old road was the beginning of what is now a national highway, known as the Cherry Valley Turnpike.

At 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon the historical pageant will be repeated and in the evening a program of indoor boxing and wrestling has been arranged.

The pageant offers nine episodes, the seventh of which is the massacre. The other scenes portray the work of the pioneers in establishing their homes in the wilderness, the coming of Cherry Valley—first known as Lindesay's Bush—the founding of the first school and the stirring days of 1778. The final scene is the visit of General Washington to this region in 1783.

Newspaper's Short Life

"Publick Occurrances" was the name of what is said to have been America's first newspaper. One edition was issued in Boston September 25, 1760, by Benjamin Harris and Richard Pierce. Four days later the Colonial censors, already on the job, suppressed it and another edition was never published.

Poetic Flowers

There are flowers whose common names have become a poem in all ears that know English poetry; cowslip, primrose, pansy, daffodil, violet, mayflower—we know them well. When we order unprotestingly from the seedsman a packet of Myosotis laxa the flowers we raise from it tend, cherish, gather and give to our friends are Myosotis no more—they are forget-me-nots.

OLD ST. LOUIS MORGUE VACANT AFTER 50 YEARS

Tragedies in the Mound City Are Recalled as Building Is Being Razed.

St. Louis.—The old morgue, for more than a half a century St. Louis' home of death, has been abandoned to its ghosts.

The last scene in thousands of tragedies, the old building has gone the inevitable way of the victims it housed. It will be razed to make way for a new $1,000,000 municipal service building.

The morgue started its grewsome career in June, 1875, as one of a group of public buildings, housing courts and a jail. St. Louis was then a hardy river town where justice was rapid.

One room in the morgue housed the gallows, an efficient arrangement. The scaffold has long since been removed but many of the morgue's oldest ghosts bear the marks of hemp.

In those early days the morgue might have been impressive. Now it is a grimy little building, crouched in the shadow of surrounding skyscrapers. It looks its part as a catch-all for human debris.

Even the glamor of violence has been taken from it. In recent years its patrons were largely the victims of traffic accidents. Occasionally the body of a slain gangster enlivened its routine.

But for Cal, an aged negro employee, there was none to regret the abandonment of the morgue this spring. He alone seemed to enjoy the gaping show in which death was always the star, the show now robbed of its old backdrop.

"I've seen a lot of 'em since I came here," mumbled Cal, when the morgue moved to temporary quarters in the city hospital. "Ten thousand of them at least.

"We used to have one a day at first, but last year we averaged more than three. There are a lot more accidents nowadays with automobiles so common.

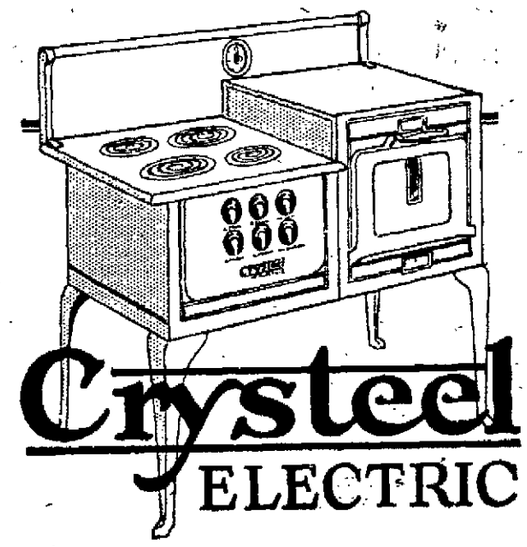

"The biggest month for murders was June, 1924. We had 20 that month, mostly gangsters. They all end up here. Hardly one of 'em more than twenty-four years old either."

The new municipal service building is part of an extensive program of construction started here. Virtually all public buildings are to be replaced.

If the sun can see what the moon can see the women on the street will be tanned all over in two or three days of sunshine.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

The All-White Evening Gown Is Still Distinctive, But Bluish Mauves and Faintly Tinted Pinks Add Their Charm to Summer Dances.

New York—There is no dearth of colors from which to choose one's dance frock, but no matter how attractive each and every one may appear, they can never compare in distinction with the all-white or the all-black gown.

All-white continues to be expressive of summer elegance, and the frosted effects contributed by crystals and sequins give a pleasing suggestion of coolness just now. There are still gowns that, because of flying panels, swaying fringes, and irregularities of line, bring to mind the song about "shreds and patches". Also to mind the influences of movement upon the modes of the day.

Gowns, as well as their wearers, never seem to lack motion. They are like winged things fluttering about, white moths or pale butterflies, darting hither and yon as though dazed by the light. While some of the ultra smart frocks have a tendency toward tailored detail, even when of chiffon and other diaphanous textures, the general impression is that the feminine theme is the one most often played upon.

There are certain indefinite shades of blush rose and other almost iridescent tones that have a very natural appeal. Among them must be mentioned the more ethereal blues, which have become more and more important. Peach is another shade of the hour, and soft mauves have their place, such tones as are particularly lovely in crepe satins and at their best when untrimmed and depending on soft draperies that give forth high lights and shadows. Blue mauves are considered newer than the more familiar orchid tints.

One may elect to wear silver brocaded slippers, but the smartly shod take into account the color of the gown and repeat it either for all or a part of the slipper.

IDEAL PARK.

Miss Blue Bell Maclean of Brooklyn is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Imray, at her summer home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazenbush of Henry street, Kingston, visited their two sons, Arthur and Robert, at the boys' camp on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. D. M. Hasbrouck and family of Willow were callers in this place Sunday afternoon.

Miss Mabelle DeVall is visiting friends and relatives in New York city.

Mrs. Harold Christee and son, Harold, of Brooklyn, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Riley of this place.

Another advantage in having a checkmate is that you can use big words you don't know how to spell.

Made of Metal Cloth; With Karakul Fur Trim

Carefully Studied Line Is Featured by Vionnet

A smart collection presenting a carefully studied line with a clever and intricate cut of the models is shown by Vionnet. The waistline is very slightly raised, but there are many indications of a higher line obtained by insertions, decoupes, and trimmings. A black crepe de chine frock was really high waisted with a belt in front only and a long skirt much shaped in front. Many boleros are seen. The fullness of the skirt is in front, obtained by a shaped movement, godet or plaits. Also a number of frocks and coats crossed to the side with a flare on one side only or perfectly straight.

The most characteristic feature of Vionnet's collection is decorations of tiny "plis places," which in some cases are used over all the frock. Generally, however, these are on the bodice only, while the skirt has a few plaits in front. These "plis places" form geometrical designs, checks, points, transversal and vertical lines. Another important trimming is the one made with drawn thread work, which is also generally on the bodice alone. In a very pretty beige crepe frock these form a round plastron underlined by many lines of embroidery. The necklines generally are finished with a small neck-band, scarf or a small collar on simpler models.

Sleeves frequently are kimono shaped and cut in such a way that it is difficult to see where the seams are.

Frocks of a more habille type, which often are in crepe satin, either black or beige, or in printed crepe or chiffon, have bodices trimmed with large soft facings falling so as to give a double jabot effect with one-sided facing or with scarf collars tied in front or at the back. Again several frocks show a bodice draped in front in the manner of a hood with a corresponding godet in the front of the skirt.

Color of Hose Can Make or Mar Milady's Costume

Since beige is the accepted hosiery color for spring, which of the many tones and shades are you going to choose for your new costume?

There are three groups—the rose beiges and the yellow beiges and the gray beiges. Consider them carefully in relation to your costume color or colors before you buy.

The rose beiges are best with colors that have a touch of rose in them or with navy blue or black. They are never worn with the yellowish colors.

The yellow beiges are chosen to harmonize with the yellow colors, such as gooseberry green, the new golden browns or the lighter blues.

The gray beiges are more neutral and therefore, a safer choice for the woman who is not too sure of her colors. The gray beiges harmonize with a greater number of colors than the other beiges.

If you have chosen beige for your spring costume color, or if you have beige anywhere on your costume, remember that the beige of your dress and that of your hose must match or harmonize. A yellow beige with a yellow beige, a rose beige with a rose beige, etc.

The smart woman never wears yellow beige stockings with a rose beige dress or vice versa. In other words, she never mixes her beiges.

Tailleurs Are of Black Rep or Oxford Mixtures

The smartest tailored suits for spring are of black rep or Oxford mixtures. Coats are short, either single or double-breasted, and a stylish jumper or the still smart Nanette blouse is worn. The silver fox scarf is the inevitable accompaniment to this type of suit. Oxford shoes of black alligator or lizard and calfskin are usually chosen.

The heavier the cross the heartier the prayer;

If griefs his heart had never wrung.

DO YOU LIKE PEPPERS?

Sweet green peppers are of such an appetizing flavor that they are used both as a dish of themselves and as a flavor vegetable. They are, like many vegetables, not of much food value themselves but the piquant flavor makes them a valuable food adjunct. In our grandmother's day they were stuffed with chopped vegetables and pickled and were considered a great treat.

Green Pepper Sandwich.—Mince fine two large green peppers after removing the seeds and white portion. Add a cupful of mayonnaise dressing to the pepper with a tablespoonful each of minced chives and parsley. Cut thin slices of sandwich bread, spread with butter, then with a layer of the sandwich filling, cover with another buttered slice and put away with a damp cloth laid over the sandwiches until ready to serve.

Pepper Entre.—Take enough peppers to serve, using half a pepper for each person. Remove the seeds and white fiber and parboil for ten minutes. Prepare enough fresh mushrooms to fill the peppers. Make a rich white sauce, adding a cupful of rich milk to two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour cooked together. Cook the mushrooms five minutes in butter and add to the white sauce. Season well and fill the pepper cups. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and brown in a brisk oven. To set the peppers in pan puns with a bit of water in each will be found the best method.

Pepper Salad.—Prepare the peppers by cutting into halves, let stand in ice water for an hour. Drain well and fill with the following: Equal parts of chopped celery and cucumber with a tablespoonful or two of chopped onion and one-half cupful of pecan meats. Serve with a good boiled dressing in the pepper cups.

The Sandman Story

by Martha Martin

THE BUTTERFLIES

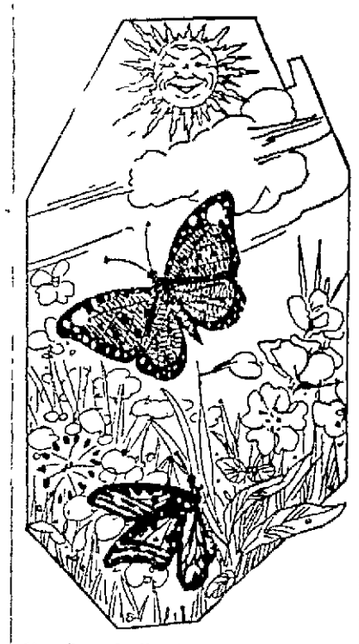

"GOOD-DAY, Mr. Sun," said the Monarch butterfly.

"You look very happy," he added after a moment.

"I am," said Mr. Sun, as he beamed brightly. "It is so wonderful to be the sun and to look down upon such a lovely world.

"No wonder people say I have a sunny nature! I cannot help but have it!"

"It is interesting to many people to know how the butterflies sleep in the winter," said the Monarch butterfly,

Mr. Sun Smilingly Agreed to Send Some of His Bright Rays.

"or whether they are all frozen! Or what happens to them! So many people, I've been told, often ask. I wonder, if I told you, Mr. Sun, if you could send around some of your bright rays with the secrets"

Mr. Sun smilingly agreed.

"I'll see that they hear if you tell me what is to be said."

"The Swallowtail Butterflies," said the Monarch, "stay in their chrysalis state in the winter time. They like those beds best.

"And the Angle Wings all change into butterflies sometime before they go to sleep, and so they sleep as butterflies. Little Bronze Copper Butterfly spends the winter as an egg. He has lots of growing and changing to do when the spring comes! I wouldn't care for his way," the Monarch said proudly.

"So many people wonder how we disappear when the cold weather comes. In the summer I've often heard people say:

"'What becomes of all the butterflies in the winter time?'

"If some one will translate for me into their language I'd like to tell them all of this.

"Most of the butterflies eat a good deal more in the fall so they can be strengthened for the cold winter weather and for their sleep, and most of the great butterfly family spend the winter bedtime as little caterpillars. The Fritillary families sleep as tiny caterpillars and don't bother to grow their full size until the spring comes when they wake up and continue growing!

"Then there are some families where the grown-ups sleep as butterflies and where the little ones go to bed as caterpillars and don't change into butterflies until the spring comes. The Orange Sulphur and the Clouded Sulphur Butterfly families do this.

"But, oh dear, I must stop talking," the Monarch said, for as he looked about him he found that all the butterflies had disappeared.

"I've never been so late in starting for the South. I must hurry and follow the birds.

"But the butterflies and caterpillars who're staying up North and who're sleeping through the winter will be quite safe and snug. They know where the rocks and crevices are which will be the right places for them. If they're chrysalids they will know how to attach themselves safely with a fine silken cord to a tree, so the old wind won't blow them away.

"Yes, the winter time is the butterflies' bedtime and there are only a few of us who go away and stay awake! But the butterflies sleep at different stages of their growth, some as caterpillars, some as chrysalids and some as full-grown butterflies, as I've said.

"For isn't that sensible? You don't find all boys and all girls of ten years old going to sleep and all boys and all girls of twelve years old not sleeping at all!

"And as you don't find all boys and girls going the same just because they're of the same age or the same size—neither do you find butterflies all doing alike!

"But before I fly I must sing the Butterflies' Bedtime Lullaby."

The Monarch looked up at Mr. Sun and smiled. Then he sang this song:

In the winter when it's cold
Do not be so very bold!
Do not freeze your pretty wings,
Do not chill your nose and things!
If you're a caterpillar or a butterfly,
In a warm place you must lie,
Covered up with silken threads,
Or in warm and leafy beds
And sleep and sleep and sleep some more.
Such are the butterfly ways as of yore,
And ere I go on my wandering way,
I wish the rest of you all a good-day,
And pleasant dreams and a good winter's rest,
So that when the spring comes you may all look your best.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"SCAPEGOATS"

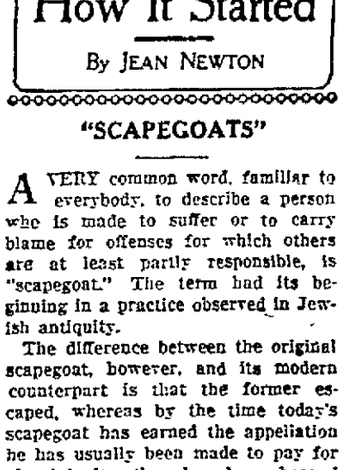

A VERY common word, familiar to everybody, to describe a person who is made to suffer or to carry blame for offenses for which others are at least partly responsible, is "scapegoat." The term had its beginning in a practice observed in Jewish antiquity.

The difference between the original scapegoat, however, and its modern counterpart is that the former escaped, whereas by the time today's scapegoat has earned the appellation he has usually been made to pay for the iniquity that has been heaped upon him!

The original "scapegoat" was a real goat, on whose head the ancient Hebrews on their Day of Atonement, symbolically placed their sins. After all had been relieved of their burdens of conscience and the transfer had been made to the goat, the animal would be released and permitted to escape into the wilderness! Hence our "scapegoat!"

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

ASHES AND LIVE COALS

IN SOME parts of the country there is a superstition to the effect that a maiden can ascertain the name of her future husband by the following means: When she goes to bed she should hang her undergarment upon the foot of the couch and place below it a board covered with ashes, saying:

Whoever my true love be,
Come write his name in these ashes for me.

The next morning the required name will appear upon the ash-covered board. Something of the same sort is recommended for those who fancy themselves in ill luck because of some sinister magical influence at work against them—such as being bewitched, or "overlooked," as they say. In this latter case no board or ashes should be used but a live coal dropped through the garment after it is taken off. The selection of a garment which has been worn next the body is because it has, according to the idea of primitive man, acquired by the magic of contact a share in the personality of the wearer so that it represents its owner in a very real way—is, in fact, a sort of second self. Therefore what affects it affects its owner. The ashes and the live coal are both relics of fire worship.

The second superstition mentioned is a common one in some rural sections and Elworthy says of it "that the burning coal may be a relic of fire-worship and so, on the other hand, a propitiatory act of sun-worship." But fire-worship would appear to be the simpler explanation.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)

The National League situation drew the attention of fans today, the Pittsburgh Pirates having regained first place by the narrowest of margins, and the Chicago Cubs, who have been on the crest since they usurped the Corsair regime earlier in the month, being all set to go in and spoil John McGraw's silver jubilee celebration at the Polo Grounds.

Chicago managed to get an even break with the Giants yesterday but that wasn't enough for a club with championship aspirations. Meanwhile the Pirates were avenging a double defeat at the hands of Philadelphia. Donie Bush's club drove Tony Kaufman off the mound in the third inning of the opener and won out, 9-7. They came back in the second to pound Ferguson out and snatch a 6-5 win, although the Phillies rallied with three runs in the ninth.

Gabby Hartnett's home run in the tenth inning of the first game gave the Cubs a 6-4 margin on the Giants but the New Yorkers beat Charlie Root in the next game, 3-2, Harper clinching the contest with a homer in the seventh.

Hughie Critz was almost the whole show at Boston in Cincinnati's 3-2 victory over the Braves in ten innings. The Reds' second baseman drove in two runs and scored another on a home run.

Brooklyn and St. Louis were halted by rain.

George Sisler hit a home run with the bases loaded in the ninth at St. Louis but the Yanks beat the Browns, nevertheless, 10-6. Lou Gehrig took the home run lead over Babe Ruth by knocking one of Ernie Nevers twisters out of Sportsman's Park in the eighth. Gehrig now has 31 homers on his list, one more than Ruth.

The lowly Boston Red Sox went on a batting rampage in the first game of their doubleheader with Cleveland, pounding four Indian pitchers for a 14-5 lacing. Buckeye stood the Cardigan clan on their heads in the second, scoring a 4-0 whitewash for the Ohioans.

Sam Gibson shaded Lefty Grove in a pitching duel at Detroit and the Tigers beat Philadelphia 5-3. Fothergill's home run in the first inning with two on really won the game.

The Chicago White Sox were easy for Irving Hadley, Washington rookie pitcher from Birmingham. Hadley turned in a 5-1 victory for Washington, the Sox getting their lone tally in the ninth. Ted Blankenship was hit hard.

Sharkey Fears A "Sneak Punch"

Fighter's Manager Doesn't Want Him to Become Too Confident—Critical Verdict Keeps Sharkey a Favorite Although Average Fan Favors Dempsey.

New York, July 19 (AP).—The only thing Jack Sharkey fears in his battle with Jack Dempsey Thursday night at the Yankee Stadium is that the former champion may pull a "sneak punch" as his manager calls it, or, in plainter terms, land a lucky blow.

Sharkey himself dismisses the idea with a gesture. He is confident Dempsey won't be able to "slip anything over." He feels that he will be ready to meet the ex-titleholder on any terms or in any style of milling. But his manager, Johnny Buckley, doesn't want any chances overlooked.

"I don't want Jack to be too confident," Buckley declared today. "The only thing he has to fear is that Dempsey may slip one through, a 'sneak punch'. A lot of things can happen in the ring but I don't see how Sharkey can fail to win by a knockout, anyway you figure the two Jack is younger, stronger, faster and a more accurate, if not a harder hitter than Dempsey."

The finishing touches were scheduled today for two of the most unusual training programs any pair of heavyweights have ever indulged in for a fight of such importance as the million dollar spectacle assured for Thursday night.

Sharkey's almost indifferent, pay-as-you-enter workouts in Madison Square Garden's top floor gymnasium have contrasted sharply with the secrecy or mystery surrounding Dempsey's preparations under the direction of a new mentor, Leo P. Flynn. Publicly, both have appeared to work "under wraps."

The principal result of all this has been to throw the expert talent into more confusion than usual when it comes to picking the winner. Drifts toward Dempsey one day after a particularly impressive punching exhibition by the ex-champion usually have been followed the next by a swing back to the younger, speedier and resourceful Sharkey.

Critical verdict, based on ring form, have kept Sharkey a favorite in most wagering, but newspaper polls among the average fans have revealed decided confidence in a successful comeback by Dempsey.

Dempsey's Arm Found to Be O. K.

Former Champion's Energetic Workout on Monday Refutes Charges That His Left Arm Had Been Seriously Injured—Just a Slight Soreness.

White Sulphur Springs, Saratoga Lake, N. Y., July 19 (AP).—Circumstantial evidence has very nearly convicted Jack Dempsey of an injured left arm only three days before the former heavyweight champion must carry that highly potent weapon into combat with Jack Sharkey in the Yankee Stadium.

But a single mute witness a bulky leather handbag of 200 pounds, slowly turned a battered, dented face to a jury of newspapermen in the center of Jack's training ring and the charge of serious injury had to be dismissed. Official denial that Dempsey had suffered such a blight to his chances of conquering the Boston sailorman Thursday night might be incorrect, but there was no denying the evidence offered in Jack's behalf by the hapless bag after the workout yesterday.

Scarcely an hour after Jack, during the seven round workout, had smashed the bag for six whole minutes with a series of left hooks and vicious right crosses that sent the big sock flying almost to the ceiling, rumor spread through the camp that an injury to Dempsey's left arm had caused the layoff in training over the past week end and had brought about the former titleholder's sudden decision several days ago to do no more boxing before the Sharkey melee. Manager Leo P. Flynn admitted the arm was "sore" and the chase for facts was on.

The final explanation was this. Several days ago, Dempsey, in protecting himself from the hostile advance of sparring partners, caught several blows on his left arm. A slight soreness developed and Jack's handlers, following a procedure they always employ in treating stiff muscles, wound the arm in liniment and bandaged it lightly to protect his clothing. The bandage itself had no more significance than the soft cotton stockings of a thoroughbred race horse.

GUILDY ALL-STARS DEFEAT SAUGERTIES.

Joe Coughlin proved invincible against the Saugerties A. C. Sunday afternoon when he hurled for the Guildy All-Stars. The Saugertesians could collect but 3 tallies while the Guildys showed four across the rubber in the first and seven in the seventh. Lynch, Niles and Hinckley did splendid work with the willow for the winners.

Tuesday evening the Guildys will journey to New Paltz for a game there. A game with an out-of-town team would please the Guildys very much. Any team who wishes a game at Block Park next Sunday, communicate with Tom Coughlin, 116 Hunter street or call 387-J.

Silver Jubilee For John McGraw

New York, July 19 (AP).—John J. McGraw today celebrates his silver jubilee as manager of the New York Giants. To the accompaniment of several brass bands and a galaxy of stage talent, the silver-thatched pilot stood by to receive the acclaim of the baseball public as expressed by Mayor James J. Walker. A big parade and an extended program of entertainment at the Polo Grounds preceded the Giants-Chicago Cubs game on the afternoon program.

Ten National league championships, three world's championships, and nine second place teams are among his contributions to New York during the 25 years of his managerial reign with the Giants.

CLERMONT A. C. DEFEATS MALDEN ON SUNDAY

The Clermont A. C. defeated Malden Sunday, 11-6. Luke Mathia hurled excellent ball for the Clermonts; several errors by his teammates at critical moments were responsible for the runs of the opposing team. Fisher, Spalt and Gorman played exceptionally good in the field. Hotaling, Fisher and Gorman did splendid work at bat. Hotaling registered four out of five trips to the plate while the other two made three out of five. Staley, Booth and Langford did the battery work for the Malden team.

Friday night the Clermonts will meet the Golden Rods at Hasbrouck Park. The former team bowed to the Golden Rods once and mean to even up the affairs. "Cannon Ball" Lee will no doubt do the hurling for the Golden Rods. The Clermonts have not yet picked their pitcher.

Woodstock will be the destination of the Clermonts on Sunday next when they will do battle with the fast-stepping nine of that community.

On Saturday, August 27, the Clermonts are scheduled to stack up against the Silent Six of Newark, N. J., at Hasbrouck Park.

THE HOOT SUCCEEDS THE HUE AND CRY.

Always seeking the bizarre, Woodstock flaunts a new publication for the present summer season in "The Maverick Hoot," a small, eight-page leaflet issued weekly from the Maverick Press.

In the first issue of "The Hoot," much space is given over to a facetious introductory editorial. There are several signed articles, including a serious question about the local Art Gallery by William Murrell, an introduction to the new public library by Marjorie Adrian, a "Note" by Hughes Mearnes, and verse portraits by Henry M. Robinson.

In format, the "Hoot" is 5 by 8 inches in printing, with but two columns. Below the title is a rough wood-cut picture showing a flying figure called "art" leading a horse which draws a coach with radio, cider and other modern inconveniences for the passengers. The second printing differed from the first only in a red ink being used instead of the original black. The editor is Hervey White, Maverick founder, who is assisted by the various literary friends of the colony who reside at the Maverick during the summer months. There are to be twelve issues of the leaflet, according to announcement, and these will take the place of "The Hue and Cry," the former Woodstock colony sheetlet.

Motoring Through Clouds.

Persons who drove into Sullivan county early Sunday forenoon had the novel and not entirely pleasant experience of motoring through the clouds atop the mountains, on the Shawangunks between Bloomingburgh and Wurtsboro, and again during and following the long ascent from Wurtsboro. The vapor clung to windshields and made the going a bit perilous for a time. In the valleys, there were neither clouds or mist.

The National zoo has acquired a duiker and a dikdik. It is not said what a duiker is, but it is assumed a dikdik is two detectives.

Maverick Play Was Controversial

Presented by Splendid Cast But Raises Questions That Arouse Controversy Among Members of Woodstock Art Colony and Others.

(By F. Gardner Clough).

There are two viewpoints to be taken of the play, "Maya," presented three nights at the Maverick Theatre, near Woodstock, and which was attended by a number of Kingstonians as well as visitors and residents of the Woodstock art colony.

One is "the play's the thing" and no matter what the subject matter, the scenery, the lines may be, the acting and the author's conception must be considered first of all. Here Simon Gantillon, Frenchman, has somewhat failed an American audience, especially the hyper-critical Maverick group, that blase assemblage that hies away to the woods to find perchance something new under the moon. Granting the report that Maya was acted before crowded houses in Paris, we can easily see why New York can hardly expect large gate receipts from the skit. New York, as well as Woodstock, is frankly way ahead of this play. Thirty years ago it would have appealed by virtue of its bawdy and dissolute hue; today such things are frankly understood, have honestly lost their appeal.

The first several scenes are dull enough; wit and spice are lacking, indeed the author seems to have degenerated into pantomine at certain scenes. Certainly this can hardly jibe with the choice bits of sentimental contrasts such as were brought forth when the stoker tells the harlot of the horror of his lot while she can only console him with the tinsel words of her own hopeless bravado. As drama, "Maya" is frankly dull, and this despite the fact that its premier in the U. S. A. (At the Maverick) was given by a splendid cast with Jane Meredith acting the stellar role to perfection. A versatile, capable, emotional, sentimental and professional actress, Jane Meredith carried the play on her shoulders throughout. She was ably assisted by Farrell Pelly, Kumar Ghoshal, Norma Millay, and others.

And in this first viewpoint, we seem to see Gantillon redeeming himself by the character of Sidi, the Hindoo rug peddler, who has for the idealism of the western mind naught but fiendish cackles to fling back over his shoulder into the bedchamber of Bella, the beautiful. "Give me the money! I am a poor merchant. I cannot make a bargain." Yet he sells a rug at a profit and laughs his way off the stage. A strong touch showing the colossal advantage materialism has over idealism in the end.

It must have done the women good, if such types were at the play, to witness man's degraded state throughout. Gantillon was profeminine for a fact. The writer saw a number of men in the audience frankly bored with the play, stretch out on the wooden benches to snooze and sleep through dull lines; if Bella had only been real instead of make-believe!

Others returned from this Maverick theatre offering to declare they had seen worse plays in New York city. Reading Cabell for salaciousness again! Gantillon was better understood in Paris! Of that one can be sure. Some of the blame may fall on Winifred Katzin, who translated Maya. Russell Wright, director did his work well at the Maverick; Arnold Blanch as designer was also a success. Harvey White, Maverick owner, can be congratulated on producing a controversial play.

Entertainment at St. Mark's.

The entertainment announced to take place at St. Mark's Church, Foxhall avenue, Wednesday night, has been changed and will be given by the choir on Thursday night immediately after the quarterly conference. All the members as well as friends are earnestly requested to attend this conference, meet the new P. E. and hear the reports from the several departments of the church. They will be most encouraging and they will want to know who the newly nominated officers are as confirmed by the conference.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

While there was static all day and evening Monday, reception was not bad and some of the western stations were really good. WLW, WTAM, WJR, WSAI and WSM were especially clear. WJZ faded for a time, while WEAF was exceptionally good. WMAF, WEEI and WNAC were the strong eastern stations, with WBZ developing a most annoying whistle. Montreal was weak but clear. WSEA was strong as usual and WBBC was strong but noisy. The big question now is how reception will be Thursday evening when the big fight is on.

The Merchants' Association of New York, will honor Commander Richard E. Byrd and the other members of the crew of the trans-Atlantic plane, "America," and Clarence D. Chamberlin, pilot of the plane "Columbia," at a luncheon on Wednesday, July 20, beginning at 1:15, the proceedings of which will be broadcast through WNYC, WEAF and other stations of the Red Network. Among the speakers will be heard Commander Byrd, Lieutenant George O. Noville, Bert Acosta and Bernt Balchen of the "America," and Clarence D. Chamberlin, of the "Columbia."

Concert at Sahler Park.

On Wednesday evening at 7:30 there will be a special concert in the Sahler park to which the public is invited. There will be a group of vocal solos by Marian Crane Jones and a scarf dance by Helena Snow as well as violin selections by Hans Weissman, accompanied by Mrs. Weissman.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 19 (AP).—Responding to growing expectations of favorable fall business, the stock market today resumed its march to higher ground, with new leaders brought forward as some of the old favorites showed signs of wavering on profit taking. Investment issues continued to attract the most interest, with much of the buying reported to be for institutional and European account.

The credit outlook continues favorable. The declaration of a 100 per cent stock dividend by the Commercial Solvents Corporation, and the publication of the quarterly report of the Hudson Motor Car Company, showing $3.62 a share as against $2.52 in the preceding quarter, had a bullish effect on sentiment. Public participation, however, continues on a relatively small scale.

Motor and public utility issues presented several points of strength in today's trading. General Motors crossed 208 to a new high record. Buying of some of the minor motors was said to be for the account of a new investment trust which eventually planned a merger of those properties. Abitibi Power crossed 99 to a new peak and good buying developed in Consolidated Gas and People's Gas.

Electrical stocks moved into new high ground under the leadership of General Electric, Westinghouse Air Brake and Manhattan Electrical Supply. Timken Roller Bearing and American Bosch Magneto stood out in the automotive group.

Although the Kansas City Southern Railroad, the first to report its June earnings, showed a slight decrease in net operating income, the demand for the rails continued unabated, with Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Atchison, Canadian Pacific and Gulf, Mobile and Northern in the forefront of the advance.

GIVE DEMONSTRATION ON FROZEN DESSERTS

Wednesday evening at 7:30 and Thursday afternoon at 2:30 there will be a demonstration on "Frozen Desserts" given by Miss Nellie Davenport of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation in the home service auditorium at 5 Field Court.

It is necessary to give more attention to meal planning in the summer time for it is then that appetites need inspiring and demand foods that are refreshing and cooling. Although half the battle is won by having meals with a good beginning, one dinner can be spoiled by having a poor ending. Frozen desserts are especially adapted for warm weather and do save work just to our appetids. The demonstration will include some very helpful ideas as to the use of desserts with very little effort or attention. All desserts made will be served to those present.

NEWBURGH GIRL LOSES LIFE IN WALLKILL RIVER

Helen Christine Sharpe, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sharpe of 81 Renwick street, Newburgh, lost her life Saturday in the Wallkill river, near the Red Mill. Whether she was drowned or died from shock is not known.

The little girl was a member of a picnic party composed of parents, teachers and officers of the First Congregational Church Sunday school that left Newburgh about 10 a. m. to spend an enjoyable time at the Red Mill on the Wallkill river near Pine Bush. The stream is about 30 feet wide and from two to seven feet deep at that place.

The child had been away from her mother about ten minutes when it was reported that "Jack," the son of the Rev. George W. Pender, pastor of the Congregational Church, had recovered the body of a drowned girl. The body proved to be that of Helen Sharpe.

At the morgue of the undertaker it was discovered that one of the girl's ankles had been sprained which led to the theory that in wading through the water the girl struck her foot against a stone, losing her balance and was thrown into deep water. It was later learned, however, that there was no water in the child's lungs. It is believed that the child died from fright as she had a weak heart.

Non-Residents Can't Dig Worms

Glen Cove, N. Y., July 19 (AP).—Fish worms, which recently have crawled into the public prints in dispatches of Presidential pastimes, have now wriggled their way on the official statute books of this little Long Island community, the richest city of its size in the east.

The city council has unanimously adopted ordinance No. 61 which makes it unlawful for any one not a resident to dig worms within the city limits. Violation of the ordinance will be a misdemeanor and a police officer has been assigned as a worm warden to take action against poachers.

For years out-of-town people have been digging worms here to sell elsewhere, threatening to cause a vermicular famine to the despair of residents who scorn the use of flies.

Louise Dewey Chapman, wife of Clowry Chapman, died Sunday morning at her country home, "Fairfields", at Bearsville. It was there that she and Mr. Chapman built up an interesting Colonial house, with historical interiors and furnishings. Before the mantel of the living room, removed from a mansion at Johnstown, N. Y., Governor DeWitt Clinton and La Fayette received the people of the Mohawk Valley at the opening of the Erie canal a century ago. It was to Mrs. Chapman that her husband inscribed his books on "Advertising and Sales that Develop Good Will" and "The Law of Advertising and Sales". Mrs. Chapman was born in the heart of Detroit, Mich., opposite Grand Circus Park, at the time when her father, a famous caterer of that day, invented ice cream soda. Autos Inspected Free of Charge

Statewide Safety Campaign Under Way—Motorists Can Have Cars Inspected Without Cost—Certificates of Approval Should Remain on Windshields.

Secretary Benjamin Suskind, of the Ulster County Automobile Club, received word Monday from Commissioner C. A. Harnett, of the motor vehicle bureau, that close to three thousand garages had already returned application blanks for appointment as official inspecting stations in the Statewide Safety Campaign which is being staged from July 18 to August 6, inclusive.

Secretary Suskind is in receipt of a list of the official inspection stations for this district so that any motorists who want to know where they can obtain free inspection of their automobiles should call the local Automobile Club office, telephone 2620.

As has been previously announced, the object of this campaign which is sponsored by Governor Smith, the motor vehicle bureau and automobile clubs affiliated with the New York State Automobile Association, is to make sure that the brakes, steering mechanism, horn, lights and mirrors are all in proper condition. The statistics obtained by the motor vehicle bureau indicate that a large percentage of automobile accidents are caused by defective mechanical parts and it is believed that this campaign will prevent many future accidents and actually save lives throughout the state.

A communication just received by the Ulster County Automobile Club from headquarters of the New York State Automobile Association claims that New York is the first state in the Union to put on such a campaign and already several communications have been received from other states asking for the method used in New York.

Results of Inspection.

An experimental campaign of the same nature has been carried out in the city of Grand Rapids for the past three years. The first year the campaign was developed in Grand Rapids, the final check up showed that 33 1-3 per cent of the cars examined were defective in one or more of the mechanical points under consideration. The second year of the campaign, only 25 per cent of the cars were found defective and in 1926, the third year, only 3 2-3 per cent of all cars examined were found defective, showing a concrete accomplishment in the direction of safety.

In Grand Rapids, considerable reduction has been made in automobile fatalities as a direct result of this campaign. In 1925, 35 people were killed on the streets of the city and in 1926 only 9 were killed, showing a fatality reduction of 72 per cent. Also, last year Grand Rapids led all cities of 100,000 population or over in reduction of fatalities caused by the automobile.

These figures, Secretary Suskind points out, will indicate the results that may be expected in New York state.

All Garages Asked to Aid.

Every garage in the state is being asked by the motor vehicle bureau to give this free inspection to all motorists who ask for it and, if any garages have not received the application and pledge forms from Albany, they should immediately get in touch with the local automobile club.

Every automobile that is inspected and found, or placed, in proper condition, will be given a certificate of approval by Commissioner Harnett and this certificate should be carried on the windshield for the next month or two. The certificates of approval will be placed on the cars examined, when they are in proper condition, by the garages.

At the close of the three weeks' campaign, the local police will examine the cars to see whether they have been approved by the Motor Vehicle Commissioner or not. For this reason, motorists should not remove the stickers after they have been placed on the windshield by the garages.

Get Inspection Free.

The motorists can go to any garage appointed by the Motor Vehicle Bureau and get this inspection absolutely free of charge. If the car is found defective, the motorist can order the garage to put it in proper condition or he can take his car to some garage and have the work done. If he wishes, he can do the work himself. After the car has been placed in proper condition, the motorist should take it to the garage for examination again in order to obtain the certificate of approval.

Agencies cooperating in the Statewide Save-a-Life Campaign are the motor vehicle bureau, state police, New York State Automobile Association, Empire State Automobile Merchants' Association, National Automobile Equipment Association, Chambers of Commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, and other civic organizations, as well as churches and the public press.

GAVE UP $100 BILL BUT GOT HUSBAND

A woman's honesty lost her $100, but won her a husband who has thousands.

Six weeks ago Miss Elsie Willbanks, a San Francisco saleslgirl, walked into a bank. On the floor she noticed a crumpled piece of currency. Picking it up, she found it to be a $100 bill. Miss Willbanks turned the bill in to the cashier.

"If it is not called for within three days, it is yours," the cashier told her. Three days later, still hopeful, the young woman returned to the bank.

"Sorry," said the cashier, "but the money was claimed by James Litton, a broker. I gave him your address."

"Oh, well," said the saleslgirl. But two days later she received a letter from Litton. "You being a lady, it is hard for me to offer you money for your honesty," he wrote. "May I have the pleasure of your company at dinner?"

Miss Willbanks accepted the invitation. Three weeks later she accepted Litton's offer of marriage.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

Chicago—Perhaps the vice-president does not want many. Word comes from the mountains of New Mexico that two other members of the six in the party of Mr. Dawes have caught fifty fish each out of a total of 116.

New York—A pure white collie has been presented to Commander Byrd by a namesake. The dog was brought from Cartago, Costa Rica, by Phil G. Byrd, formerly adjutant general of Georgia.

Scarsdale, N. Y.—Stands for the sale of hot dogs and peanuts are taboo, by order of the village trustees, because they mar scenic beauty and endanger health, but Castas Kitakakides, war veteran, who did quite a bit before the order was passed, is going to law about it.

Washington—Uncle Sam appreciates good work. There was a fire at Camp McClellan, Ala. Quartermaster Sergeant Frank O'Donnell let his own goods burn in order to give the alarm, and save government property. The government is to reimburse him $486 for what he lost.

New York—Dr. J. Dryden Smylie, of the steamship Baltic seems to be as good a physician as a sailor. Four hundred miles out of New York the Baltic was informed by flag code on the freighter Falkenstein that "the old man has appendicitis." The doctor dropped into a boat via rope ladder and was rowed to the freighter through stormy seas. "Acute dyspepsia" he diagnosed the captain's case. Next day came word that the doctor's medicine had produced a complete cure.

New York—An income of $6,000,000 from bootlegging between 1919 and 1922—such is the estimate of federal officials regarding Mannie Kessler, who has served time in Atlanta. Prosecuted for failure to pay income taxes, he has settled for $20,000.

HAT GAVE WARNING OF OSCAR'S TEMPER

One of the eccentricities that made the late Oscar Hammerstein, the noted theatrical impresario, such a picturesque figure on Broadway is recounted by George Blumenthal in an article in Liberty. "When you saw Oscar Hammerstein coming down the street wearing his funny silk hat, you knew he was in a good humor. But if he were wearing a slouch hat—look out!

"I recall that at the Manhattan opera house there was a little place beneath the stage which had never been finished," the writer tells. "This 'cave' would admit about six persons and was a great place to be when Hammerstein went on one of his many rampages. We employees called it the Cave of Refuge. Before Hammerstein arrived for the day, we generally had a lookout posted. He would come back and report something like this: 'It's all right—the boss is wearing his high hat.' Or: 'Watch out—he's got on that slouch hat!' The slouch hat meant the Cave of Refuge for us."

Suspicious!

The loyalty of a magician's assistants is frequently put to the test by people who would like to learn his secrets, but the helpers are usually equal to the situation.

George White has been with Thurston ever since the magician started around the world with his show. One day an inquisitive busybody slipped George a cigar and said to him:

"How does Thurston make the woman float in the air without any support?"

"I don't know," George replied, "but I think there must be some trick about it."

Duke Dodges Taxes

The duke of Devonshire has turned his family estates in England into a company under the title of Chatsworth Estates, Ltd. He is the seventh English duke who has been forced to take this step because of the staggering taxation rate on large personally owned estates, and the comparatively small taxation on corporate land companies. Also, by thus incorporating himself the duke will avoid death duties when he dies.

World Population Doubles

The greatest single change of the past 100 years has been the rapid increase in the number of people inhabiting the earth. During that time the population of the world nearly doubled. A century ago it was less than one billion. Today it is about 1,700,000,000.—American Magazine.

Prince of Wales To Avoid Talking

When He Visits Canada With Premier Baldwin in Connection With the Dominion's Diamond Jubilee—Prince George Will Also Make Trip.

London, July 19 (AP).—The Prince of Wales wants to leave most of the speechmaking to Premier Baldwin when they go to Canada this summer in connection with the Dominion's diamond jubilee. The official tour is scheduled to begin July 29 and end August 10. They will sail from Southampton Saturday.

The Prince does not like public speaking, and according to close friends has indicated that he will do only a small part of the talking. Both the prince and the premier realize that the schedule of official engagements awaiting them will make the trip a strenuous one. Prince George, who will also make the trip, is congratulating himself that his status is merely that of "passenger".

It is expected that Wales after parting company with the premier in Canada, will proceed to British Columbia and to his Canadian ranch, accompanied by his brother. Mr Baldwin will continue his official tour to Winnipeg, concluding it at St. Johns.
